Maximiser Indexing Conveyor for Autobag AB Range Baggers

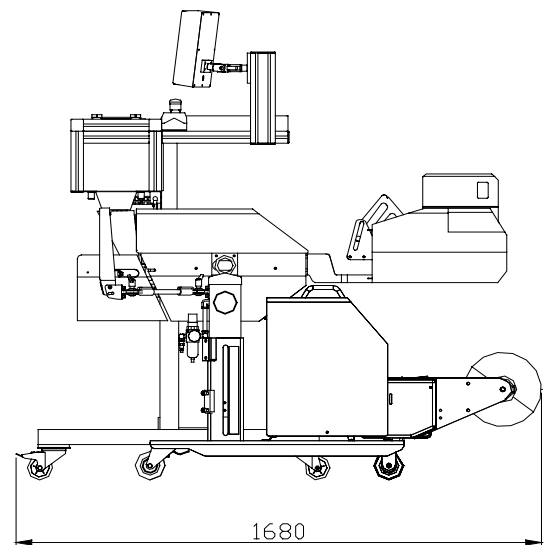

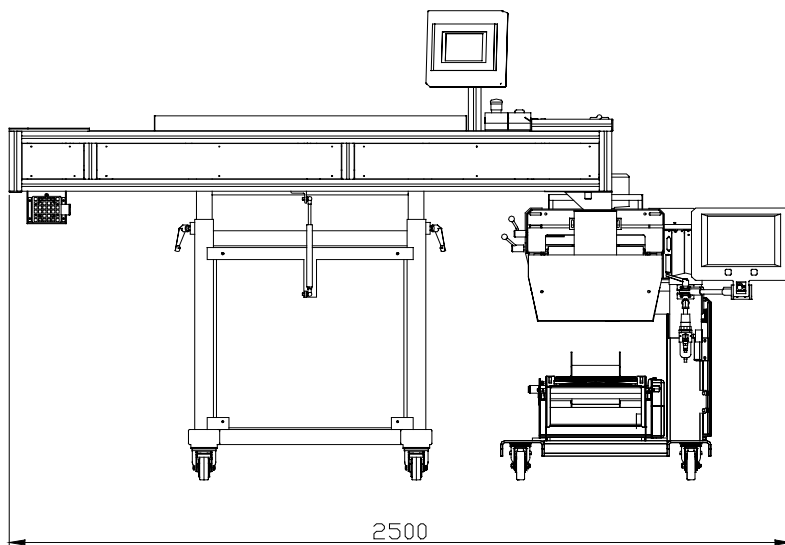

The Comcount Maximiser is an Indexing Pocket Conveyor Infeed system designed to work in conjunction with an Autobag AB Range Bagger to maximise operator efficiency in semi automatic applications.

The unit basically consists of an indexing conveyor with integral product pockets, a stepper motor drive system, a field eye product detection load area and a Siemens Plc based control system.

A bulk supply of product is placed on the load tray. An operator can then simply slide the required quantity or mix of components from the shelf into the nearest indexing pocket and the field eye detection system triggers the Bagger when a loaded pocket is discharged.

The Maximiser unit is capable of conveying and counting hand placed items at speeds of up to 60 batches per minute and is designed to be simple to use, dependable and flexible in operation.

Standard Features

Combines with Autobag AB Range Bagger and Printing system to provide integrated efficient packaging as small components and kit packs.

115 x 90 mm indexing pockets allow a wide range of difficult products to be packed. Side and cross flights bonded directly to indexing belt allowing even the smallest products to be packed.

Stainless steel load shelf to hold bulk product conveniently ready for hand loading variable index rate and conveyor speed for maximum efficiency.

Product field eye detection system to trigger bagger when pocket discharges. Multiple pockets can be set for bag to allow easier counting or handling of components.

Siemens Plc based control system with Touch Screen display for simple set up and diagnostics and a job store facility for product setting.

Options

Extended length or width versions are available as a special option to suit different applications.

Comcount BF and BFW range counting machines can also be integrated with a Maximiser unit to further automate the packaging operation.
